

Fun Times in Assisted Living

COVID-19 STATUS

We've made it another week with no COVID-19 positive cases in our Assisted Living.

HAPPY (DAY BEFORE) FRIDAY 😊

This comes early this week as I will be out of the office for a few days. You'll see in the next page why I chose the particular quote I did for this week. Now I'm curious, did you peek at the next page? I certainly would have. 😊

This may sound like a strange statement, but I have a favorite part of COVID-19. It is the masks. I love all the color and individuality. I love that we can personalize them, color coordinate them, be silly with them, or just wear plain ones if we feel like it. I love that even though they hide our faces, they individualize us as well. We can share a little glimpse into ourselves with the people around us via the mask.

We all wear masks, both literally and figuratively. We wear "masks" to help us have courage or to hide our scars. My grandmother used to tell me to "Put on your happy face, dear." We're taught at a young age to put on our mask. What happens when we take it off - do we know the person beneath it? Think about the different masks you wear as we go through the next week. What does your mask tell people about you?

"Nothing is more real than the masks we make to show each other who we truly are."

AND A GOOD TIME WAS HAD BY ALL

When the residents can't go to the game, the game comes to the residents. This little group gathered outside of my office this week to play Wheel of Fortune. I poked my head out to join them and quickly learned I was better suited to be the photographer. The residents are far better at Wheel of Fortune than we are.

SILLINESS

Let's do something a teensy bit different. This page is pictures of masks and silliness. Our Activities Assistant visited all of our residents (and some of our staff) to offer lips and mustache's to "accessorize" our masks with. We all had fun just being silly for a little while.

SOME "ODD" FACES 😊
